Jesus?

I Am; if I had not delivered you, you would have been still today in deep sleep;

I feel very ashamed. I am indeed the last to talk. Whatever I do and try to amend and thank You, Lord, will not come near enough for what You've done again for me. Even when I want to pray for others I feel guilty and hesitant because, Lord, how would I dare pray for others who are so far better than myself? How could "the most wretched" pray for someone better than herself? It reminds me of Your words about the plank in the eye and the splinter in the other one's eye. I feel I've got a plank, a whole forest, so how could I with all this wood in my eye dare utter a sound? Unless, Lord, You
